

ADVANCE TEN MILES.

Kuropatkin Advises Authorities at St. Petersburg of Enemy's Progress.

The Old Port Arthur Story.

Early Morning Cablegram That It Had Been Taken Soon Denied for Lack of Confirmation--Heavy Losses Reported for Japs in Yesterday's Fighting.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 6.—General Kuropatkin reports that the Japanese advanced ten miles north of Hai Cheng on Thursday and that they are also advancing in considerable force.

Nagasaki, Aug. 6.—It is reported here that Port Arthur has been captured by the Japanese.

New York, Aug. 6.—11:35 a. m.—It is not probable that Nagasaki would be the first point and the only point to learn of the fall of Port Arthur.

There is no despatch from Tokyo or the Japanese legations at Washington or London to confirm the Nagasaki report.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 6.—A despatch to the Bourse Gazette from Liao Yang says that another great battle has been fought in the neighborhood of Houtzia Tchou, on the railroad about fourteen miles west of Liao Yang, in which the Japanese losses are estimated to be from ten to thirteen thousand and the Russian losses insignificant.

The despatch to the Bourse Gazette which is dated Thursday evening says: "There has been fierce fighting Tuesday, Wednesday and today. The Japanese made a vigorous attack on the center of the Russian position at Houtzia Tchou.

The reserve men attacked with desperation. Their ranks were decimated by the Russian fire each time they advanced, but the vacancies were quickly filled up with fresh men. The Russians ultimately slowly retired to other positions from which they inflicted great losses on the Japanese by heavy artillery fire. The Japanese losses are estimated at ten to thirteen thousand men. The Russian losses were comparatively insignificant."

Washington, Aug. 6.—Mr. Gresham, the American minister at Tokyo, has not notified the state department that the commander in chief of the Japanese forces in Manchuria deems it necessary that foreign war vessels should neither enter Ying Taw nor anchor therein until order has been entirely restored in that region.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 6.—12:58 p. m.—The Novoye Vremya today published a leading editorial entitled "The direction of the Washington diplomat," which says:

"This is all the more agreeable as the Washington state department has not always observed such judiciousness in dealing with Russia.

"This time," the editorial continues, "Secretary Hay, according to the despatches, has taken the consideration of the seizure of the American goods bound for Japan with circumspection to avoid raising side issues and keeping in view the sole object of assuring protection for American trade in the far East to the extent permitted by international law in time of war.

Mr. Hay has taken a praiseworthy step in sounding the powers through the American representatives abroad regarding the seizures, instead of forwarding a brusque note to Russia through the American ambassador here. This leads us to hope that no serious misunderstanding will arise between St. Petersburg and Washington. America is chiefly interested in our declaration of food stuffs as contraband and the Washington government seems not especially inclined to insist on the declaration of all food stuffs as being contraband, only insisting that food stuffs to be contraband, must be destined to the military forces of a belligerent. The editorial concludes as follows: "In view of the considerably discreet handling of this question and the manifest desire of both sides to avoid exaggerating it into an 'incident' it is possible to bring both points of view into accord."

Onslaught Against Britain.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 6.—6:11 p. m.—The Soviet, which formerly was extremely Anglo-Phebe but which lately has shown a tendency to avoid the subject of Russo-British relations, this morning prints a bitter onslaught against Great Britain on the subject of the steamer Malacca and other recent incidents, charging Great Britain again with seeking to balk Russia, saying that she is taking advantage of Russia's situation to irritate her as much as possible and also to press forward in Tibet and Prussia.

Answered Last Roll Call.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 6.—The army organ today published the names of the officers killed or wounded, July thirty-first and August first, showing that seven were killed and 40 wounded, including General Dekulskii, commanding the first artillery brigades. In addition eight officers are missing and one officer died from sunstroke. The paper does not say this is a complete list. The officers are from thirteenth infantry regiments, of which four are from Siberian regiments belonging to the late General Keller's corps.

WANT

Denial of Contraband Made Clear to Avoid Future Complication.

London, Aug. 6.—In connection with the discussion between Russia and Great Britain with respect to a revision of the Russian regulations prohibiting the conduct of naval commanders toward neutral shipping and commerce, it is learned that the British government, now that it believes a satisfactory adjustment of the Knight Commander incident is within sight, is laying special stress on the advisability of a clear definition of contraband, more in accord with the practice of other maritime nations.

The government of Great Britain is of the opinion that only by a settlement of the broad principles can the development of irritating incidents be avoided. Russia is disposed to meet Great Britain in the most friendly way, insisting, however, that her special geographical situation, which makes it difficult to send prizes to her own ports should be taken into consideration, and that any modification of her list of contraband shall apply not only during the Russo-Japanese war, but in any future wars.

Foreign Secretary Lansdowne is giving the matter urgent attention, particularly owing to the interrupting of the British far eastern commerce of which the action of the Peninsular and Oriental Co., yesterday in issuing a notice to the effect that the company will not take either passengers or cargo beyond Shanghai by intermediate steamers is an example of the effect on public opinion.

Another Description of Battle.

Simon Cheng, Manchuria, Aug. 6.—

There was heavy fighting here for two days. The Japanese commenced the attack at dawn of July thirtieth with long range rifle fire lights on the Russian right. The Russians wasted no ammunition in replying to this fire, and the Japanese brought a mountain battery to their support. They then moved forward in order to secure a better range, the infantry racing across a zone of fire to secure a post nearer to the ridge on the Russian right. Many fell during this advance, but the remainder gallantly pressed on and got the cover of the ridge. The battery followed, galloping forward recklessly and as well as the nature of the ground permitted. There was no fault to find with their shooting from the new position from which they concentrated their shell and rifle fire on the Russians, compelling them to fall back 150 yards to better cover.

A battery coming to the support of the Russians turned the tide and silenced the Japanese guns, four of which were dismounted. The Japanese then retired from their position and with the remainder of their forces attacked and pressed other points of the Russian lines, creeping up through the kaolin fields to within 100 yards of the Russian trenches. They lost heavily. The Russians, however, did not suffer excepting from extreme heat.

Towards evening the Russians tapped the Japanese heliograph communication and found that the Japanese were preparing for a flank movement. Lieutenant General Zassalitch extended his flank companies and headed off the movement. General Mischtenko had a brilliant on the Russian flank. His cavalry attacked the Japanese inflicting heavy loss, and retiring in safety to his former position. The battle was resumed early on the

HER Handsomeness Spurred By Conductor,

Who Found the Purse Which Contained

Fifteen One Hundred Dollar Bills, and Returned It to Rightful Owner.

At His Refusal to Accept Twenty-five Cents She Became Indignant and Hastily Quit His Nasty Car.

New York, Aug. 6.—Edwin E. Brophy, a conductor on the Sea Gate and Manhattan Beach line, Coney Island, has returned to its owner a purse containing $1500. The owner, a well dressed woman attempted to reward his honesty by offering him a three quarter. Brophy was a graduate of Denison Normal school, is ambitious to become a physician and for three years by working as a conductor, summer and at odd jobs during the winter has succeeded in paying his tuition and expenses at the Baltimore university of medicine. He has one more year to study before setting the degree. Shortly after the passenger left Brophy's car at the Sea Gate tunnel, Brophy saw what he thought was a tobacco pouch lying on the back platform. He gave it a kick into the street and then thinking that some tobacco might come handy, he picked it up and examined it.

Inside the pouch he found fifteen neatly folded one hundred dollar bills. Brophy had two more trips to make before he could turn the money into the lost article department. On one of these the superintendent of the company boarded his car and Brophy at once told him of his find.

Before the car had started back a smartly dressed woman boarded the car crying that she had lost her money. When she described the pouch and its contents Brophy at once turned it over to her. Profuse in her thanks she opened a pocket book, and picking out a quarter, offered it to Brophy. At Brophy's refusal to take it she became indignant and laid the coin on the seat as she left the car.

TAGGART MET GORMAN TODAY.

New York, Aug. 6.—Chairman Taggart of the democratic national committee called on Senator Gorman early today, and then visited the different buildings which are under consideration for headquarters in this city. Arrangements are about completed for the assembling of the Park ar notification committee next Monday and the trip to Esopus Wednesday morning.

PLATOON OF POLICE,

Brass Bands and Rough Riding Cattle Handlers Headed Parade.

40,000 Unionists Were in Line.

One Child in Ranks Bore Banner With This Inscription: "Take Mother Out of Packing House So We Can Have Her at Home."

Chicago, Aug. 6.—"Take mother out of the packing house so we can have her at home."

Two hundred little children dressed in white and waving tiny flags bore this appeal on placards at the head of the women workers in the strikers parade of 40,000 unionists that surrounded the Packington in formidable, but peaceable array today. For the rest a platoon of police, brass bands, rough riding cattle handlers beneath flying banners lent color to the line of more than 450 representative labor bodies. Business was practically suspended in the streets until shortly after noon when the last of the procession marched toward a big grove where a picnic was given to increase the fund for the support of the strike.

With the exception of some of the banners borne by the children there was a marked absence of inscriptions calling attention to the present strike conditions. One of the children's banners bore this: "Give father living wages so that we can go to school." The crowds along the line of march were orderly in the extreme and the few policemen scattered along the curbing had little or nothing to do.

WHETHER
Teamsters Strike or Not Will Be Settled Monday.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—Consideration of the question of calling out the truck teamsters and those hauling from meat warehouses and of formally forbidding delivery of ice to dealers handling meat from the combination of packers was again taken up today by the executive committee of the Allied Trades.

It was decided that nothing could be done with the teamster problem until the Teamsters' union officials come Monday from Cincinnati, where they are in conference.

The action taken then will depend largely on the attitude assumed by the Ice Teamsters organization.

LARGE POSSE AFTER THEM.

Twelve Negroes Escape Jail in Delaware and Hustle to Reach Maryland Line.

Philadelphia, Aug. 6.—A special to the Evening Telegraph from Laurel, Del., says: "Word was received here that in the pursuit of the twelve negroes who escaped from the Georgetown jail yesterday, one man was killed near Old Furnace Mills. It is not known whether the information refers to one of the escapees or a member of the posse.

"Sheriff Steele telephoned to say that the negroes are supposed to have escaped from Cyprus swamp last night and are making their way to this city in order to get over into Maryland. Nearly every one in the vicinity of Laurel is armed and the search for the negroes is general.

It has been learned that the man reported to have been killed during the search for the jail breakers is still alive but is fatally injured. He is a native. When ordered to halt he refused to do so and was shot by a citizen at noon today. He gives his name as Smith, but he is believed to be one of the Brown brothers who escaped from the Georgetown jail. Three of the escaped convicts were discovered making for a thicket three miles from Laurel. They were shot at but it is not known whether anyone was hit.

TROLLEY CAR HIT BY TRAIN.

One Fatality Resulted and Ten Passengers Were Injured, One Seriously So.

Kansas City, Aug. 6.—An Atchison-Topoka, Santa Fe passenger train from Chicago, crashed into a well filled trolley car today at Fifteenth street, in the eastern part of the city. J. L. Morris, of Pleasant Hill, Mo., was killed and ten were injured. Mrs. Stanberry, of Kansas City, seriously. The accident was caused by the crossing gates being up. Harry Black, the flagman who was slightly hurt, says that he was sick and unable to bring the gates into position. The engine struck the car in the middle and overturned it.

RUSSIAN RETREAT TO NEW CHWANG.

THAT Sultan Is Somewhat Inclined To Dilly-Dally.

Secretary Hay's Return to Washington

Was Signalized by Consideration at Cabinet Meeting of Foreign Relations.

Appropriation Has Been Made to Uphold American Squadron at Gibraltar, Instead of Ordering Its Return Home.

Washington, Aug. 6.—Secretary Hay's return to the city from his summer home was signalized by consideration at a cabinet meeting of important matters concerning American foreign relations. The secretary had not completed his vacation but returned to Washington at this time on account of the developments in this country's relations with Turkey.

The whole question was considered by the president and his cabinet. In the light of information received by cable from Minister Lelshorn, at Constantinople. This government has been pressing the porte for an answer to our representations. The sultan promised an answer last Friday, but the minister did not receive it. He was put off until yesterday. Then an answer was received from the sultan himself as to the rights of Americans to establish schools and other educational institutions. Such rights have been accorded other nations but have been withheld from America.

Secretary Hay laid before the cabinet a cablegram he had just received from the minister to the effect that he had not been able to obtain a satisfactory answer to his representations. This government is annoyed at the procrastination of the porte and at what seems to be a studied act on the part of the sultan to dilly with the American cause.

Secretary Hay declined, however, to leave the cabinet meeting, to say what if any agreement had been reached. Secretary Morton's reply to similar inquiries indicated the probability of important action by this department bearing upon the Turkish question. It is known that appropriation has been made to uphold the American squadron at Gibraltar, instead of having it return at once to this country. At Gibraltar the squadron would be available for any service the government might determine to have it perform.

ITS FIRST MEETING WILL BE HELD MONDAY.

New York, Aug. 6.—The first meeting of the republican national executive committee eastern division, will be held Monday. Chairman Cortelyou and the members of the convention, Mrs. Crocker, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Murphy and Mrs. Ward will be here on Monday.

EIGHT WERE BADLY HURT.

Prompt Work of Police and Firemen Saved Men Imprisoned Under Fallen Walls.

New York, Aug. 6.—Eight men were badly injured, two fatally, in East New York in the collapse of a wall of a two story brick building. Six men were buried under tons of beams, masonry and flooring. All would have perished had not policemen and firemen assisted in the work of rescue.

A physician risked his life to administer restoratives to those hurt, crawling on his hands and knees under the wreckage. The building was only partly finished. The rain is supposed to have weakened the masonry. A policeman who was standing nearby saw the south wall begin to crumble near the base. Bricks fell. Suddenly there was a lurch, and he called out a warning, just as the wall fell inward, carrying the floors with it.

MILES FUNERAL.

Washington, Aug. 6.—The remains of Mrs. Nelson A. Miles, wife of former commanding General Miles, were committed to the national cemetery at Arlington where services conducted by Chaplain C. Price of Fort Mercer were held. The remains were placed in the vault where they will rest until the completion of the vault which Gen. Miles is having built on his reservation.

SQUADRON ORDERED TO TURKISH WATERS.

Washington, Aug. 6.—The European squadron has been ordered to Turkish waters. The orders were cabled to Admiral Jewell who put himself in command at Nice. His ships are the Olympia, Baltimore and Cleveland. It is understood that he will proceed to the eastern Mediterranean somewhere near the Black sea.

The destination of the fleet is Smyrna. This place was selected because it afforded direct cable connection with Washington and is only about 300 miles distant from Constantinople. The trip will probably be made in three days and when he arrives there Admiral Jewell will put himself in communication with Minister Lelshorn and also report to Washington.

50,000 MEMBERS ENROLLED.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 6.—Rev. Walter Shanley of this city, president of the Catholic Total Abstinence union of America announced that he has called the thirty-fourth annual convention of the organization to be held in St. Louis, August tenth and twelfth. There are 50,000 members enrolled and it is expected that one thousand delegates will attend the convention.

EXHIBITING DEEP INTEREST.

Hundreds of Bright Newsboys Will Attend National Meeting of That Craft.

St. Louis, Aug. 6.—The hundreds of newsboys' organizations and the thousands of newspapers over the country are exhibiting a more than ordinary interest in the celebration of newsboys' day, August 16th, at the Exposition. It will mark an epoch in their development by being the birthday of a National Newsboy association. The features of the day will be the ceremonies in festival hall and concerts by newsboys' bands. The ceremonies include an address of welcome by President Francis and a response by John E. Guckel, president of the Toledo, O., newsboy association.

DINNER GOWN IN THE NEW SUEDÉ SATIN

There is a report that poplins will be introduced for the coming fall, silk poplins as well as the all-wool textile bearing that name. These, of course, must be pieced. It must also be noted that there is a gradual return toward glossy materials and also those of finer weave than what have lately been fashionable. The idea appears to be to construct street costumes composed of such, either in conjunction with some fancy woven fabric or with tulle or faille, these latter either for trimming purposes, or in some cases forming a more important portion of the costume.

Some early fall creations carry out this notion by showing us dresses where, on a faille skirt, there are alternate flounces of this textile and while though the entire corsage is of faille the sleeve again shows a mingling of both fabrics. A new material for the fall is called saken cloth. Extremely glossy, it is of exceptionally tight weave, being almost transparent. This employed in conjunction with dull shaven materials looks its best. A robe shown has a long tunic of saken cloth over a faille skirt, where, as in the costume already described, the foot is adorned with several very narrow flounces of both fabrics. The tunic is of princess cut, the front opening widely in its entire length, the body, as also the skirt, being faced over a faille waistcoat and the front gore. The sleeve is double, first a skirt-shaped sleeve of faille, and covering it an open one faced to a certain height at the outer seam. This facing arrangement appears in many of the fall models, and though adapted to an entire tunic and at first sight looks somewhat complicated, is in fact, perfectly simple. Two bands of the material—one sewed to one side of the tunic in the interior, the other loose and having hooks or buttons, enabling it to be similarly fixed to the other side—have holes through which the lace passes from side to side, and this once arranged and fitted to the figure does not again require to be fitted.

The fall is expected to bring with it the extremely long pointed waist belonging also to the Louis XV period, but this, in all probability, will be chiefly adopted for quite dressy and evening wear. We have pointed the waist among present fashions, but of far more moderate length than those designed for the close of the year. And with these particular types of waists in view, the question naturally suggests itself: What description of skirt will accompany them? They require, to set them off, fullness around the hips, at all events, at the back and sides; rather than plaits, but, so far, this point appears unsettled. It is not, however, improbable that this change may now be brought about not abruptly, but by degrees, present fashions rather bearing testimony to the fact. While adopting the dress of the Louis period in its entirety, the late summer fashions have copied some of the prettiest details of that line with happy effect, as, for example, the deep pointed corsage, with its border of bows and the lace flounces and sleeve ruffles. Elaboration, particularly in the form of handwork, is the order of the day and, fortunately, indeed, is the women who can add this distinction to their gowns by her own needle. There was a time when the tailored gown and elaborately embroidered material was a diffident, totemic, character, and very little outside trimming and faced by the trimmest lace, and with this, the person are thought by many the severest finish, but now even the tailored suit has been considerably softened, although the crown of first, second, and third class, for a time, and is greater.

all sorts of materials, from the softest crepe to heavy tweeds are used for trimmings and needlework of every kind. In some of the newest of these models there is a suggestion of the graceful Directoire models, with tulle, lace, waists, deep girdles and sloping shoulders.

Gowns of crepe de chine will still be seen at all fashionable dressmaking establishments, in spite of the fact that tulle and silk is said to have entirely replaced this crepe material. To be sure, every complete trousseau has at least one costume made up in some of the fascinating shade of silk, but, nevertheless, one cannot keep entirely to this texture, and surely more than one afternoon gown of silk is necessary.

Crepe de chine then still holds its own. Then there is the new suedé satin, which is so well named, due to the fact that there is just that dull gloss to the surface of the material, which is characteristic of the skin from which it is named. On the other side of the coin, one may have a gown of the most exquisite shade of silk, but, nevertheless, one cannot keep entirely to this texture, and surely more than one afternoon gown of silk is necessary. Crepe de chine then still holds its own. Then there is the new suedé satin, which is so well named, due to the fact that there is just that dull gloss to the surface of the material, which is characteristic of the skin from which it is named. On the other side of the coin, one may have a gown of the most exquisite shade of silk, but, nevertheless, one cannot keep entirely to this texture, and surely more than one afternoon gown of silk is necessary.

Plain crepe de chine can be made to look charmingly with very little outside expense, and this in spite of all that may be said to the contrary. Shimmering, cording, pleats and tucks are now used in such profusion that one often wonders where room could be found for another inch of trimming.

Type gowns are most attractive when accented or side pleated throughout. One of the most attractive gowns seen this year was of white accented pleated crepe, made with a small, square yoke of rich Irish point, and slightly V-shaped at the throat with the collar. The sleeves were large and edged finished with a deep fall of lace. At the waist a broad pointed circle of pale blue satin. The so-called satin crepe de chine is far more effective and but little more expensive than the dull finished crepe. Bright contrasts are very smart with the colors of fall shades. Soft gray, with a bright dash of orange-colored velvet to the collar, or bright silver gray, trimmed in some way with cerise, are both effective. Cerise and navy are both extremely popular shades this year, and when becoming are most attractive. With a gown of these colors care must be taken to get a hat that either exactly matches or else tones in perfectly with the color of the gown or else the waist charm of the costume is lost. Strange to say, even a black hat will kill absolutely one of these bright shades, and even white is not so effective as a more subdued color of the gown. Some of the most charming hats are those trimmed with ribbon and flowers of cerise, are most attractive and perhaps make the gown appear cooler. Straw-colored parasols may also be carried with these costumes of bright cerise, in which it is almost impossible to find a parasol.

Gowns of crepe de chine with large designs in velvet applique are most effective. With a waist trimmed with a deep bertha of lace below a yoke of lace and crepe the skirt may have simply one or two broad bands of the lace about five inches wide just at the knees and at the foot of the skirt and broad bands of lace from 10 to 12 inches deep. About the hips are tiny box plaits and below the first band of lace the material is attached in the small half-inch pleats instead of being gathered on the lace.

A touch of white on a gown, particularly a dark one, is always effective, and many cloth costumes with facings of white effects will be noticeable as having a certain distinctive appearance that is most attractive. To the people who find always something to criticize the fashion of trimming plain cloths with bands of fancy materials or portions, but most effective is the style and growing steadily in favor.

DESCRIPTION OF ABOVE MODELS.

A Plum-Trimmed Hat.

Very serviceable for the late summer and the early autumn days are the new shapes in dark straw. These are radically different from those we have been using all summer. There is a high crown, which fits comfortably to the shape of the head, the triple velvet covered bandeau merely serving to lift the shape gracefully at the left side. The brim is broad in the front and sides, fitting the head closely at the back. The ostrich plumes are of various lengths, and are disposed after no set fashion, each being placed where it will accord best with the lines of the features, and show to the best advantage. Two long ones are placed on each side, one on the brim, and three shorter ones are disposed across the front. A group of three is posed on the bandeau at the left side, where they softly rest on the hair. At no point do the long plumes hang from the hat, the tip of each just curling on the brim.

A Lace-Draped Turban.

The turban shapes more than hold their own as the summer wares, and although there are a few changes to be noticed in the details of these very fashionable hats, the broad outlines remain about the same. An exceedingly good model is that illustrated, one which embodies several new features of fashion and is likely to prove almost universally becoming. The frame is somewhat on the box shape, and is covered with a cable-weave straw in a pearly shade of gray. This forms both crown and brim, the crown being flat on top and joining the brim without break. A little roll of black velvet ribbon makes a heading for the lace "curtain," which depends all the front and sides, fitting the head closely at the back. The ostrich plumes are of various lengths, and are disposed after no set fashion, each being placed where it will accord best with the lines of the features, and show to the best advantage. Two long ones are placed on each side, one on the brim, and three shorter ones are disposed across the front. A group of three is posed on the bandeau at the left side, where they softly rest on the hair. At no point do the long plumes hang from the hat, the tip of each just curling on the brim.

Simple Design in Liberty Crepe.

There is a chic air about this simple little gown which is a strong commendation to the amateur dressmaker who desires to copy smart frocks, provided that they be not too difficult of construction. Upon a fitted lining—or in the case of a very slender figure the fitted lining may be omitted—there is a round yoke of the crepe, and to this sprays of point d'Alençon forming the collar and trimming the upper part of the yoke. Over the shoulders there passes a bertha composed of large medallions touched up with a little hand embroidery and small sprays, the medallions being set in at the regulation shoulder line and simply a huge puff, shirred at the elbow, where it forms a second puff that falls over the plain cuff finished with the point lace. The skirt is pleated to the waistband, the pleats

Model in Hemstitched Voile.

All of the voile weaves are extremely fashionable, and they are now of trend in all sorts of openwork and lace designs. Perhaps the hemstitched pattern, either in squares, triangles or straight lines, are among those most favored, and the model shows the straight hemstitched design in an ivory tone touched up with a novelty lace braid in which scarlet and gold predominate. The blouse-waist has a shallow yoke which stretches somewhat down in epaulet fashion over the shoulder, and is continued down the front in stole design. The sleeve is inserted with rows of shirring, these meeting the shirrings of the blouse, which saags both back and front into a fitted girder showing a marked dip or point in the front. The sleeve is a large puff with two tucks headed with piping cords at the elbow and finished with a loose cuff and lingerie ruffles. The skirt has a pointed hip yoke, to which the fullness is shirred, and corded shirring and deep tucks alternate from above the knee to the hem.

Dinner Gown in the New Suede Satin.

The new suede satins are well named, for there is just that dull gloss to their surface which characterizes the skin from which they take their name. Somewhat on the peau de sole weave, and yet sheer and supple as chiffon, this weave lends itself well to the hand-made designs. The gown of the picture is one that has all the air of an expensively elaborate creation, and yet the girl who is clever with the needle can copy it readily. The blouse is fashioned unlined and the round yoke is entirely covered with medallions of repousse lace connected with sprays of Brussels in an excellent imitation web. The sleeve is a circular puff with long, deep cuff, the cuff adorned with medallions joined with straps of turquoise velvet. The skirt is gored, the gores instead of being soamed are joined with fancy Mexican stitched in heavy ivory pipe silk. Groups of tucks space the skirt above the deep circular flounce, which, adorned with two sizes of medallions of repousse lace, and a backing of chiffon provided which throws up the pattern of lace to perfection. The very deep girder is fashioned upon a featherbone frame which laces in front so that the waistline may be adjusted as desired.

CONSUMPTION THREATENED.

"I was troubled with a hacking cough for a year and I thought I had consumption," says C. Unger, 214 Maple Street, Champaign, Ill. "I tried a great many remedies and I was under the care of physicians for several months. I used one bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar. It cured me, and I have not been troubled since." For sale by H. FORTY

Boys Beneath Legal Age Were

Carried Back

To the Shores of Sunny Italy by Vessel

Which Had Brought Them to America in Violation of Labor Laws.

Rev. F. Rupert, in an Interesting Manner, Discusses His Voyage Across Atlantic on Board the Romanic.

On board the S. S. Romanic, one day out from the Azores;

June 26th, 1904.

Times-Democrat, Lima, O.

Saturday, June 18th, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, I boarded the ocean steamer "Romanic," had an elegant luncheon on board the ship, and promptly at 1 o'clock p. m. I beheld the great iron monster move-away from its pier, clear the harbor of Boston, and look boldly out on the Atlantic. The Romanic is a huge boat, five hundred and fifty feet in length, seventy-two feet in width, and forty-four feet high, and is registered at eleven thousand five hundred tons,

yet she is by no means the largest vessel that plies between Europe and America. She has an elegant promenade around the state-room deck exactly one-twelfth of a mile in circuit.

Her captain is A. E. S. Hamblen, a thorough-blood Englishman in appearance, speech and manners. There are five subordinate officers. She carries a crew of 257 men, one-half of whom are Englishmen, the other half Italians. The reason why she carries so many Italian sailors is because they are more familiar with the Italian seas, ports and channels than the English are. There are also twenty matrons on board, who take care of the female passengers, and nurse them when they are sick. Everything is systematic; rigid orders are enforced,

and a gang of mechanics is constantly inspecting the machinery, apparatus, rigging, and other things liable to become defective. The knowledge of this scrupulous care gives the passengers on board a feeling of security.

There are 244 state-room, or first-class passengers, and 361 steerage, or third-class, passengers. There are no

second-class passengers on this trip.

Of the state-room passengers two are children, one boy and one little girl;

sixty-one men, and the remainder,

namely one hundred and eighty-one,

are ladies. Of the latter, forty-two are married women and all the rest,

viz. one hundred and thirty-eight, are listed as "young ladies," though many of them considerably advanced in life.

Of the "young ladies" nearly one-half

are public school teachers in the U. S., going abroad for a vacation.

Besides myself there are two more

Catholic priests on board, one from

Columbus, Ohio, the other from Providence, R. I. There is also an Episcopal bishop, a Baptist minister, and a Methodist minister on board, all bound for Rome, for mental and spiritual profit, and strange to say, all expect to see the Pope.

We were also treated with a little romance. A newly-wedded bride and groom got on board our ship at Boston, and their friends almost buried them beneath a shower of rice and roses just as the huge steamer was clearing the pier. For the first day

the bride was awfully sweet and lovely, and was almost everywhere present, but on a sudden she disappeared,

and was not seen again till she sighted

the Azores islands. The paleness of her cheeks, and the quivering of her nerves were palpable indications that she had a rough journey at the outset.

Two oceans, one of wedlock, and one of raging waters, were too much for her delicate frame to endure. At the time of this writing, however, she is again in good spirits, and apparently in good health. May God prosper the bride and groom!

Of the 361 steerage passengers, about sixty-five are babies and little children, who pay no fare. Forty of the remainder are boys beneath the working age allowed by the laws of the state of Massachusetts, and these the Romanic has to transport back to Italy free of charge, as a penalty for having brought them to America in violation of labor laws. The remainder are about equally divided among Italians, Portuguese and Syrians, who are returning to their native countries, some to remain there, but the greater portion to visit their relatives and friends and then again to return to America. I make it a point to go to the steerage department for awhile each day, and the poor people are delighted at my visits. Even the children manifest their delight by offering me some of their cookies and candies. The steerage fare from Boston to Naples is $34. Coming from Europe to America it is much cheaper. The state-room passengers' fare is a little over $100 per capita. Besides passengers, this steamer carries mail, express, and an almost over-weight of freight merchandise. It is estimated that the gross receipts of the Romanic for this trip will far exceed $50,000. I may, however, remark that her trips are not all equally profitable. The return trips at this season are said to be light.

The ocean is majestic. Man appears like a mote compared with it. For two days it was comparably calm, but then a strong wind arose, and gradually approached hurricane tendencies. The ocean arose in its might and gave us a sample of its terrifying grandeur. The waves appeared like monster dragons in battle array. They would dash against each other with a frightful noise and velocity, slash each other to pieces, sing quietly into the abyss with every particle quivering like the human flesh when gashed by a sword; presently they would rise again a little farther away, to repeat the same fierce antagonism over and over again. Where now you behold a monster wave thirty or forty feet high, there you will, a moment later, see a funnel-shaped hole corresponding in depth to the previous height of the watery wall. This operation is performed in a thousand or more places at the same time, within the scope of your eye, so that the mind becomes bewildered, forgets that the ocean is an inanimate element, and imagines it to be an army of giants exerting their utmost powers in an effort to annihilate each other. The ocean thus seen is a wonderful manifestation of overpowering grandeur and sublimity, and man will instinctively call upon God to protect him, and acknowledge that there is no security against such forces, but the Almighty Power that made them. I have told you the great size of our vessel, and will here add that she is iron-clad, yet the giant waves carried her hither and thither at will, just as if it were a mere pebble cast into a boiling chafard. It was also very cold and an overcoat was a necessity. On Wednesday, however, we reached the "gulf stream" and, like magic, the ocean became quiet, almost motionless, and the atmosphere hot and sultry. Overcoats were doffed in short order, and every one on board was instantly gay and happy.

When the ocean is calm, it is like the firmament, both in extent and appearance. White crested sea-fowls, like myriads of twinkling stars, leap forth from the azure-blue water in regions of spots at the same time, and way off, as far as the eye can reach, where the ocean and sky seem to embrace in loving affection, the crested silvery foam dashes away like mighty meteors moving along the sky, leaving a delicate silvery trail in its path-way.

If you look at them long you will imagine that they are bright human beings, rising from the waters, showing their dazzling faces for a moment and sinking into oblivion. It was these no doubt, that gave rise to the ancient notion of mermaids inhabiting the deep waters.

After nearly seven days ride between water and sky, we had the good fortune to open our eyes on the beautiful and picturesque Azores early on Saturday morning, June 25th. Our steamer had arrived during the night, when all the passengers were asleep, and had cast anchor in the quiet Ponta Delgada bay near the harbor of the city of the same name. We could not enter the harbor because the waters at the pier are too shallow for such huge steamers as the Romanic. We were taken ashore on small steamers and row boats. It was a pleasing diversion to the monotony of the past seven days, and we all hugely enjoyed it.

In a straight line the Azores are 2,183 miles from Boston, but the way our steamer took it is over 100 miles farther. From the Azores to Gibraltar it is 997 miles in a straight line, but our steamer will have to make a curve, because of the Formigas rocks, that are planted in our direct path, and are dangerous to navigation.

Azores is the name given to a large group of islands, nine of which are inhabited, and the remainder are barren rocks and peaks rising skyward from the waters of the ocean. The word is pronounced as if spelled "Asserres," with a long, soft and musical emphasis on the second syllable. The word is akin to our English word "azuro" and means "dusky-blue." In 1445 the Portuguese discovered these islands, and found here an immense number of large birds of a dusky-blue color, whose corresponding adjective in their language was Azores, hence the name of this group of islands. Each island has its own proper name; thus the two islands farthest west are called Corvo and Las Flores respectively. These are sister islands, are about nine miles in length, about half that in width, and have a combined population of 18,000, all of Portuguese descent. Just 75 miles east of these two comes a cluster of five islands, forming a large quintunx in the ocean. Their names are Fayal, Pico, San George, Graciosa and Terceira. These have a combined population of a little over 42,000, of the same stock as the former. They raise on these islands a very delicate linen, fibre called "Fayal," which they manufacture into the famous Fayal lace, the finest in the world. It was discovered, and first cultivated on the island of the same name. I saw this island and would like to tell you something about it, but it would take a book to do so with justice to this beautiful little paradise. The fibre is so delicately fine and white that it is colored blue before manufacturing it into lace, and when the article is finished the blue coloring is washed out. This is done to save the eye-sight of the ladies that manufacture it.

Pico is the largest island of this group, being 28 miles long, but it is not the most important. Only the valleys, and a very few of its mountains, are cultivated. Here I saw the first active volcano. It is called Mt. Pico, and is 7,000 feet high. On the west side, about 1,000 feet from the top, was a large crater, like a big, loose pocket in a man's overcoat, and from this issued huge volumes of dark smoke and fire; but there was no noise. It was a grand sight. We were within a mile of the base of this volcano, which rises almost perpendicular from the ocean, and saw it in sublime majesty, puffing forth its mighty volumes toward the skies beyond. What a power there must be within! It made us talk with abated breath to think of it.

Yet strange to say, the inhabitants treat it as if it were a gentle, sleeping lion. They cultivate not only the valleys around its base, but the very volcano itself, from its base to nearly half-way up, is covered with beautiful vineyards, pineapple fields and other tropical products. About five miles from the base, both east and west, are beautiful and thriving towns. Their houses are mostly one story high, and are composed of what we call lava, namely, material spit forth from the volcano, which becomes not only durable, but elastic, and is not liable to fall or break when there are earthquakes, a not unrequited occurrence. Their houses are all beautifully frescoed both on the interior and exterior, and as you approach the villages the sight is so picturesque that you are reminded of the beautiful coast given by Jacob to Joseph, as mentioned in the Bible.

I cannot today say anything about the other three islands that compose this interesting group, but I will do so later on.

A REPUTATION SAVED

(Original.)

Not the martial music, dress parade, guard mounting, indeed, any or all of the fascinating attentions of military life, can relieve the tedium that comes over a remote post when the inmates have once seen enough of one another. So thought pretty Mrs. Gessner, the young wife of Lieutenant Earl Gessner, and when it was announced that her husband's job at West Point was coming to a close she was greatly pleased.

For a week after White's arrival he and his friend Gessner were inseparable; then Gessner was ordered away on a special duty to be gone several weeks. He told White that his wife, who was city bred, found it dull at the post and charged him to keep her in spirits.

White began by agreeing to his friend's request, but soon discovered that Mrs. Gessner was being carried off her feet in a mad passion for him. Reserve, even hauteur, on his part availed nothing to check her. To avoid trouble he secured an order temporarily taking him away from the post.

One morning he rode away on horseback. Mrs. Gessner called for her horse and rode after him to bring him back. Whether her recklessness had suddenly become apparent to her and she feared his absence might attract attention to her folly or whether she could not endure his ill opinion, she did not know herself. She was shooting like a shuttle from one emotion to another.

There was at the post a Mrs. Major Walsh, who had long known and looked upon Lieutenant White with covetous eyes. It so happened that on the morning of White's departure Mrs. Walsh was being driven by an orderly in a buckboard on the road he had taken, and she suddenly came upon him pleading with Mrs. Gessner, who sat in the saddle irresolute. That threw the winning cards into the hands of Mrs. Walsh. Conscious of her advantage she was in no haste. She waited until Gessner had returned and White had returned, then opened a distressing fire on White.

White was no fool. Moreover, he had a cool head. The problem before him was to save Mrs. Gessner from the consequences of her rashness, himself from the charge of taking advantage of a brother officer through his wife and to save the friendship existing between himself and Gessner. This problem he considered for hours, and it seemed to him that every move he might make must be in the wrong direction. However, he formed a plan and set about putting it into operation. He convinced Mrs. Walsh that he was not in love with her rival, but was in love with her. It is not difficult for us to believe what we want to believe, and the first part of the proposition was as true as the latter part was false. Mrs. Gessner was much liked by the ladies of the post and was above suspicion, while Mrs. Walsh was neither liked nor trusted.

So far so good. But White could not long be devoted to the latter. He must find means at once to spike the gun with which she would kill Mrs. Gessner. There was also an enemy in his rear in Mrs. Gessner, who, despite her perilous position, could not bear to see the man she adored devoted to her enemy. He had two women to manage, both of whom were in love with him and either of whom was liable to commit harikari to injure the other.

One night the officers of the post got up a masquerade. It was in the warm season and there was to be dancing on the parade as well as in the officers' mess hall. The weather was superb and the moon at the full. No fancy costumes could be procured at an army post, far from civilization, so the ladies made up a number of dominoes of different colors which were to be used instead.

During the festivities Lieutenant Gessner noticed a masculine figure in a yellow domino and a feminine figure in a red domino go out into the open. At the same time a figure in a white domino slipped up beside Gessner and whispered, "Watch the red."

Gessner followed the couple out on to the veranda and on to the parade. There they danced in a set that was forming as they arrived, after which they strolled about, getting farther and farther from the masqueraders till they reached a clump of trees back of the officers' quarters and sat down on a rustic bench.

Though the couple were in shadow Gessner could see them plainly from a distance. Suddenly he saw the man take the woman in his arms and raise her mask for a kiss. Inflamed, Gessner rushed forward, tore off the woman's mask and revealed—Mrs. Major Walsh.

Gessner, declining to look into the identity of the man, turned on his heel and left them. Such was the result of Lieutenant White's plot. He had learned the color of Mrs. Walsh's domino, then instructed Mrs. Gessner to tell her husband that she would wear a red one herself, but to put on a white one instead. It was Mrs. Gessner who had whispered the words in her husband's ear. They had compromised her enemy and rescued her from perdition.

The next day White at his own request received an order from the commandant to report at Washington, where he was assigned to duty. Both Mrs. Gessner and Mrs. Walsh bore an unblemished reputation so far as Lieutenant White was concerned, but the garrison was surprised at Mrs. Walsh's departure, soon after White's going, for San Francisco, where her husband afterward joined her, reporting for duty at a post near by.

REFLECTIONS OF A SPINSTER.

A man wouldn't feel sorry for the girl to whom he doesn't propose if he realized just what those girls think of him.

It's an awful shock for a married man to find out that a girl to whom he has been paying compliments knew all the time that he was married.

Very few girls bother much over a broken heart. They always remember that if a man broke it there are other men who can repair it.

The sensible girl will marry the man who consents to give her a regular allowance, not the one who is wild to lay the world at her feet.—Bathmore American.

lovely things from his new point about therefore seem that the secretary's

The best way the people of the "Buckeye" state can make a start toward reform in the affairs of the national government, is to begin by voting the democratic state ticket.
Ohio's electoral vote placed in the democratic column would mean reform in the state extravagances for which the general assembly operating last winter made a famous, yet ill-smelling record, and necessarily a thorough investigation of the rottenness which has existed in official circles at Washington during the Roosevelt administration. Reform like charity should occasionally, at least, begin at home.

SCARED AT THE CARS.

The St. Marys Graphic (Rep.) in casting about in the political zone for something to comment on, found among other things than the Lima and St. Marys postoffice, the declaration of A. H. Jackson to run for congress.

For this there was a reason, and Editor Sullivan has found it, for he says:
"H. A. Jackson, who manufactured underwear at Findlay until a political cyclone struck the 13th district and blew him into congress, has ruthlessly put aside the crown which has been more than thrice offered him in the shape of a renomination. Jackson is almost old enough to be in his dotage, but he has sense enough to know that he has no more show of being re-elected than a snow ball has of remaining over night in hales. Like most political accidents, he has been a blooming failure. He made promises galore. He broke them, and one secret of his renomination (which he has refused to accept) was the desire of those to whom he promised the earth and the fulness thereof, to get a whack at him next fall. Jackson has played the "Foxy Grandpa" act
however and will retire of his own accord to the shades of obscurity."

PORT ARTHUR WILL FALL IN SIXTY DAYS.

This Opinion Was Expressed Today by an Educated Russian Who Had Just Left There.
Stoessel Fixing for Final Stand.

Cherbo, Aug. 6.—Port Arthur, certainly will fall in one or two months,
depending on how fast the Japanese move." This opinion was expressed here today by an educated Russian who has just arrived here from Port Arthur by junk. He had fifteen companions but the party left the Russian stronghold six days ago. They suffered much hardship on the trip over from lack of food and water.

The Russian who voiced the foregoing opinion, occupied an important semi-official position at Port Arthur and his views are regarded as valuable. He says that while the Japanese constantly receive reinforcements,

every Russian casualty decreased the defensive effect of the garrison as the Russians cannot be reinforced. Gen.
Stoessel, commander in chief at Port Arthur, is compelled to husband his ammunition. He can manufacture shells, but it is impossible to make proper explosives. The necessity of protecting the men for the final stand explains the retreat of the Russians, from the strong outpost position where their losses were far less serious than those sustained by their assailants.

According to this Russian, General
Stoessel is in daily communication with General Kuropatkin. The three days' fighting last week was done chiefly with artillery.

In the Races

That Drew a Crowd to Lima Driving Park

Automobile Race Event Was a Success and Others
Are Likely to Follow.

Several Interesting Events Among
Local Enthusiasts and Lima's
Track Is Only a Second
Behind the Record.

For a beginner the automobile races
at the Driving park yesterday can be counted as a success. There was a good sized audience present to enjoy the novelty and it was evident that there was enough excitement attending the event to please everybody.
The program offered a sufficient variety and the several events in which the two racers, the "Red Devil" and
"The Ghost" participated, gave one an idea of the risk which attends the test of speed. The taking of two short curves was extremely hazardous, but the drivers of the machines seemed to have every ounce of steam on, and the fast time of 1.15 for the mile, is a second within the world's record,
which was made by Barney Oldfield.
The "Red Devil" put the "Ghost" out of it in the heat event. Owing to the dust the judges decided that the two machines would race against the time rather than risk an accident in an attempt to pass on a track that was blinding. At times machine and driver would be swallowed up in a cloud of yellow dust, which rolled over the track and drifted over the grounds.
The race of the Red Devil against the world's record was not as fast as the mile made in the heat event, owing to a defect, the time being 1:25.

In the local events there were several interesting races but H. A. Mack, who drove a Haynes-Apperson machine led the procession. C. H. Chappell, Jr., and Frank Mullenhour were in a three mile go Mullenhour got the best of the start, and led the way for the first mile, but Chappell who was cutting her loose at the finish, took up the distance and received a storm of applause as he finally passed his rival and took the second mile with a safe lead. The time was announced as 4:44. Both were driving Cadillac machines, but of different construction.

Previous to the races there was a parade of a dozen local machines, led by Emmet Curtin in his new Haynes-Apperson.

Do Heavy Damage at Dave Finfrock's Home.

The home of David Finfrock, on south Pine street, was visited by a disastrous blaze of unknown origin
shortly before midnight last night,
while the members of the family were all away from home. Most of the furniture on the lower floor was saved, but that in the upper part of the house was destroyed and the building was also extensively damaged.

An explosion of gasoline at the home of the Rev. Mr. White, on west Spring street, was the occasion for an alarm that was sounded from box 62
this morning. The damage was slight.

Big Building Trades'
Men Locked Out.

It Is Estimated That Forty Thousand Men Will Be Affected by Order.

Possible That Painters Will Be Only
Unionized Branch of the Trades
That Will Not Be Shut Out.

New York, Aug. 6.—The building
trades lockout, declared yesterday,
goes into effect on Monday, was practically in effect today. When all the orders have been carried out it is estimated that nearly 40,000 union men will have been forced out of employment.

The Felt and Waterproofing Workers' union was added today to the long list of unions particularly affected by the lockout. The Association of Journeymen Stone Cutters, of New York and vicinity has a special grievance with the lockout orders, as they emphatically state that they have lived up to all agreements with the Building Trades Employers' association.

The various carpenter unions affected by the lockout will take action tonight at a mass meeting which has been called for Cooper union.

It was stated at the Building Trades club today that a letter had been received from the International Brotherhood of Painters with headquarters at Lafayette, Ind., to the effect that if the local unions of painters here refused to submit their differences to the general arbitration board of the Building Trades Employers' association they would be suspended by the international body.

THE MARKETS.

New York, Aug. 6.—The stock market has been largely dominated this week, by promises of a cotton crop.
But this effect has been materially modified by the fears of disaster to the wheat crop as shown by the week's report of damage to spring wheat. Railroads report improving prospects for traffic and better business sentiment.

Some revival is perceptible in the trade. Strikes and disputes in various quarters of labor world gives grounds for anxiety, and the snaiting down of car and harvestor works gives a bad impression. The plethora of money continues but exports of gold to London and the remittance to Cuba
of an installment of the loan subscription promised some reduction in bank reserves.

Minneapolis and St. Louis, Detroit uncertified and Carolina Chemical rose about a point but the general market was practically motionless. The bank statement failed to stimulate any movement. Small realizing affected the insignificant gains but there was a final rally and the closing was firm.

Wall Street Tickings.

New York, Aug. 6.—The opening dealings in the stock market today were of nominal value and the changes were insignificant and irregular. Many stocks were unchanged from last night. There was a rise of 1/2 in United Steel preferred and Pennsylvania and Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste Marie lost a half.

fined in Penitentiary.

Columbus, O., Aug. 6.—Governor
Herlick may soon commute the sen-

cision on his rights in the case.
Ellis has rendered an opinion to the effect that under the constitution the Governor has the right to commute their sentence, to any time he may deem best.

NOT FOR HIM.

Harry Furniss, the artist, says that one day Professor Hubert Von Her-komer, of the British Royal Academy shaved off his whiskers and then was unknown to his former friends.

One sculptor, Ford, laughed uproariously at his appearance on discovering who he was. Herkomer exclaimed: "Do not ridicule me, sir, or I shall hypnotize you." And he proceeded forthwith to send the frivolous sculptor into a trance.
"Now, sir," said the professor, performing "passes" over the unhappy sculptor, "before 12 tonight you shall have cut off your own beard."

Ford went home. He laughed at dinner as he told the story but before dinner was over he rose from his seat,
left the table, and, after the absence of several minutes, returned with his beard cut off.

This fact leaked out and the other academicians were discussing it freely. One, endowed with a massive beard, approached Professor Herkomer
and said:

"I say, Herkomer, is it true that you hypnotized Oslow Ford and made him shave off his beard?" "Sir," thundered the professor, "I say a word I shall— ON, NO," said the little man, "not that." And holding on to his beard, he took to his heels.—In-

NOT VERY DEAF.

The venerable General John H. Ketcham, of Dover Plains, N. Y., for many years a member of congress, is noted for his generosity and kind-heartedness. The general is quite deaf, and many a yarn is related anent
that defect.

One morning he was standing in the lobby of the house looking over his mail when an impecunious employe of congress, one of that sort who is always borrowing but never repays,
stepped up and accosted him:

"General, can you let me have $5
till pay day?"

"Eh, how's that?" asked the General.
The employe, remembering the general's reputation for being easy, concluded to take advantage of it.

"I say, can you let me have $10 till pay day?"
"No," said the General, "I'll let you have $5; that's what you asked for at first."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

STAND

For Relief of the Suffering
And the Work

Of Humane Society Has Been Effective.

Meeting Was Held Last Night
and a Number of Complaints Reported.

Society Will Ask for a Portion of the Sheep Fund as Provided by Law and Use the Money
to Good Effect.

A meeting of the Humane society was held last night in the office of President Eastman, and the members present heard reports of recent acts on the part of Humane Officer Pelletier in the relief of children and animals who have fallen into hard places. In addition to a number of prosecutions and convictions during the past month there are a number of cases being inquired into that may lead to other arrests if complaint continues.

The society is not making very much noise, but its records will show that in no other way could prompt relief have been furnished and the guilty ones brought to justice. Some startling cases of neglect have been investigated and under the lash of the law the parents who have displayed a cruel or neglectful disposition toward their children have been compelled to change their tactics. In other cases while the acts of cruelty were well known it was impossible to furnish sufficient evidence to convict, but a warning proved sufficient to relieve the situation.

One of the lady members who was present at the meeting last night complained of a driver of a milk wagon who has been seen cruelly lashing his team on a number of occasions, and the same offender was stopped on the street and warned if he didn't cease his cruelty he would be prosecuted. A young lady who protested against his brutality was cursed for her pains.

President Eastman and the secretary were authorized to make application to the county commissioners for a portion of the surplus sheep fund in order to have money needed to carry on the work of humanity. Under the new code the commissioners may use their own discretion as to the amount turned over to the society and as the surplus is not large, it could not be devoted to a better purpose. It was also decided to work up the membership to a point that Lima should have, and new people would begrudge the annual dues of 50 cents if they were acquainted with the duties of the work and the relief it affords to neglected children and abused animals.

Two regular army battalions of infantry, two troops of cavalry and two batteries of artillery have been ordered by the war department to participate in the maneuvers of the Ohio National guard in Athens county, Aug. 16th to the 23rd. In all, Uncle Sam will send about 1,000 men to furnish field work patterns for the citizen soldiers of Ohio.

Including regular and militiamen, about 7,000 men will participate in the maneuvers, during which at least three and possibly four sham battles will be fought for points, in which upwards of 300,000 rounds of blank ammunition will be used.

The detail of regulars announced today is as follows: From the department of the lakes, Col. Walter T. Dugan, First infantry, who will be in command of all the regulars; Lieut. Col. R. T. Yeatman, 27th infantry; Capt. Frances E. Lacey, Jr., adjutant First infantry, fourteenth and twenty-first batteries of field artillery; companies A, C, F, and G, of the First infantry composing one battalion, companies E, F, G and H, of the 27th infantry, composing one battalion from the department of Missouri; Lieut. Col. Samuel P. Fountain, Fourth cavalry, troops L and M of the Fourth cavalry.

Findlay Team Plays Here
Next Sunday.

Lima lost both of the games played away from home this week, Findlay winning Thursday's game and Defiance winning yesterday's contest. The latter game was the closest one played by the local team this season, the score at the finish being 2 to 1 in favor of the Defiance team. The local team, however, claims to have been hanted a bunch of bad decisions by the Defiance umpire. They claim that Frank Scalls tied the score in the eighth inning, beating the ball to the home plate over several seconds but was called out, much to the surprise and dissatisfaction of the spectators.

Defiance and Lima are playing at Wheeler park this afternoon with Dorn, the crack new pitcher from Findlay, on the slab for the local team. Just to, the big twirler signed from Piqua will pitch for Lima against Defiance at the Wheeler park tomorrow. The Findlay team will play here next Thursday, and a strong team from Columbus is booked for next Saturday and Sunday.

ARE PREPARED TO MAKE LOANS.

Officials of Drovers' Trust and Savings Bank Do Not Fear Run.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—When the doors of the Drovers' Trust and Savings bank at the stockyards opened today about 150 persons were in line to withdraw deposits, continuing the run on the bank yesterday. Mr. Tilden said he thought there would be withdrawal by the smaller depositors for some time.

"We are prepared for every emergency," he said. "This drawing so little bothers us, as merely to lower our financial strength. I will say that we expect to make two large loans today. We would not do that if we feared a run."

Police were again on hand at the bank to prevent disorder. The bank was crowded and many persons formed in line on the sidewalk outside waiting to withdraw funds from the bank. Discovery was made that anonymous letters were the principal weapon used to bring about the run. It is believed the run was caused through revenge directed toward Mr. Edward Tilden.

Edward Tilden is at the head of the Libby, McNeill and Libby packing company.

A recent newspaper interview in which he assailed the labor law is said to have furnished the opportunity to attack him through the bank. As it was evident at the bank that the run of yesterday would be duplicated today, extra cash in chests was brought to the bank in cabs guarded by policemen armed with rifles.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by colds. Catarrh of the Eustachian Tube cannot be cured by local applications. We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. THE FORD AUTOMOBILE

Against Great Odds Was a Great Favorite in Yesterday's Automobile Races.

For the benefit of those who saw the amateur automobile races at the driving park yesterday, it is but fair to explain that the Ford driven by Mr. Rudy is a car of but 10 horse power, and sells for $900, while the only two cars that made better time were both of more horse power. One of the machines sells for $2,300 and is of 20 horse power, while the other one is of 14 horse power and sells for $1,350. Up until the time of the races it was impossible to get any local machines to compete, but at the last moment several consented to go in and race, otherwise the races would have been classified; that is machines of similar horse power competing. As it was all machines competed together and it could be expected that the higher horse powered machines would win as they did. It was plainly shown in the second contest that machines selling for less than $1,000 were not in it for a minute with the Ford, which sells for $900. Mr. Rudy instructs us to say that he will race for $50.00 a side any automobile sold in the city, said automobile selling for less than $1,000. This is open to all our Cadillac friends or any other machine selling for less than $1,000. Distance, one mile to twenty-five.

FARMER BOY BECOMES HERO.

Killed Through His Efforts to Save Passenger Train From Being Wrecked.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—James Jensen, a farmer boy aged eighteen years, was killed through his efforts to save a Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul passenger train from destruction near Corliss, Ill. While the youth and his brother were crossing the track with a steam thresher the machine became stalled. When the Milwaukee-Chicago passenger train came on James ran up the track waving his straw hat, and so determined was he that he stood in the glare of the headlight, until he was borne down by the locomotive and crushed to death. The engineer saw him in time to slacken speed and though the locomotive crashed into the thresher, the train escaped a wreck.

$500 REWARD FOR WOMEN

WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

So uniformly successful has Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription proven in all forms of Female Weakness, Protrusion, or Falling of the Womb, and Leucorrhea, that after a third of a century's experience in curing the worst cases of these distressing and debilitating ailments, Dr. Pierce now feels fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in cash for any case of these diseases which it cannot cure.

IT STANDS ALONE—The "Favorite Prescription" stands alone, as the one and only remedy for these distressing common forms of weakness, possessed of such positively specific curative properties as to warrant its makers in proposing, and binding themselves to forfeit, as we, the undersigned proprietors of that wonderful remedy hereby do, to pay the sum of $500 in legal money of the United States in any case of the above diseases in which after a fair and reasonable trial of our treatment, we fail to cure. No other medicine for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments is backed by such a remarkable guarantee; no other medicine a woman's life is possessed of the unparalleled curative properties that would warrant its manufacturers in making such an offer; no other remedy has such a record of cures on which to base such a remarkable offer.

Therefore, trust on having Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and turn your back on any unscrupulous dealer who would insult your intelligence by attempting to foist upon you some inferior medicine under the plea that "it is just as good." Insist on having the article which has a record of a third of a century of cures and which is backed by those willing to forfeit $500 if they cannot cure you.

In cases attended by a leucorrheal drain a solution of Dr. Pierce's Lotion Tablets should be used in conjunction with the use of the "Favorite Prescription." The latter is sold by all druggists, or sent post-paid to any address, on receipt of 25 cents in stamps. Send 10 cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Advice. Address: World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y. Weak and sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Pierce's cures biliousness.

BELIEVE IN YOURSELF.

Few things are more important and valuable in the equipment of character, few things have so much to do with the achieving of success in any calling or profession, as a belief in one's self. Many men and women have been doomed to life far below the level of that for which they were naturally fitted, to a discouraged, fruitless, wretched existence, simply because they have been impressed in their childhood by parents, teachers, and often by preachers with the belief that they were nothing but worriers of the dust; because they were taught that aspirations to rise above their stations were foolish dreams, and that submissiveness to circumstances, no matter what they might be, was the first law of existence. Under such teaching in the home and the pulpit, impressed at the outset that they were born to be nobodies and that it was a sin to try to be anything else, it is not surprising that many thus taught should sink to the level of servile and spiritless drudges, never realizing their own gifts and powers, without initiative, never venturing, never daring anything in their own behalf, at the foot of every ladder, at the call of every master, the submissive and unprotesting creatures of every untoward circumstance. — Leslie's Weekly.

BOY

Sticks to His First Story.

Still States That Mrs. Krauss Gave Him

Money With Which to Buy the 'Strychnine That Killed Step-daughter.

Defense Insist it Was Daughter Who Gave Him Purchase Price. Note to Druggist Was Signed Mrs. "Showalter."

Hartford, Ind., Aug. 6.—Taking of testimony continued in the case of Mrs. R. A. Krauss, accused of poisoning her step-daughter, Crystal Krauss, Lloyd Summerville, a boy, testified that Mrs. Krauss had given him fifteen cents and a note for which he secured strychnine at a near drug store. The defense will insist that it was Crystal, the daughter who gave the boy the money and note. The note to the druggist was signed "Mrs. Showalter." It is claimed it is in the same writing as the note claimed by Mrs. Krauss to have been found by the dead girl's side, briefly bidding farewell to her father, Mrs. Peter Hartly is expected to testify that she saw Mrs. Krauss give the Summerville boy a note and money. The boy testified that when he returned with the strychnine and note, Mrs. Krauss met him at the door, took the package and said she would give it to Mrs. Showalter who was inside. There are two women named Showalter living across the street from the Krauss home. Both of them say positively they never wrote the note and know nothing of it.

Preliminary Hearing Begun.
Following the coroner's verdict charging Mrs. F. R. Krauss with killing her step-daughter, Crystal Krauss, by administering strychnine, the preliminary hearing of the prisoner was begun today. The taking of the testimony continued throughout the day. Prosecutor Burns insisted that the accused be present and plead personally, and when she appeared, the court room was crowded. J. A. Hindman, of Counsel for the defense announced that he would put on no witnesses but would cross examine the witnesses produced by the state. Dr. C. W. Corry was called first. He was summoned to the house by a telephone call and found the girl in convulsions from strychnine poisoning. His wife received the telephone call and he could not say who called him.

Dr. Corry reached the bed with Dr. Clapper, but did not find the bottle or note afterward produced by the accused. Dr. Clapper testified to the appearance of the girl while in convulsions and said she died from strychnine poisoning.

Blood Saturated Night Shirt

A true case of wonderful cure of Eczema by

D. D. D.

For five years I have been a severe sufferer from Eczema on my neck and shoulder. It itched so much I could not refrain from scratching the more continually, but even scratched it so as to tear the sore and cause it to bleed. I was not nearly so painful as the itching. Many a time have I had to change my night shirt three or four times in one night, the blood from the sore having literally saturated it, caused from my scratching the sore to get relief. During those five years I have tried almost every remedy recommended for Eczema, and doctored with several prominent physicians, but got no relief. Your D. D. D. Remedy was very highly recommended to me, so I decided to give it a thorough trial. The first application stopped all itching and I enjoyed my first night of unbroken sleep in five years. I continued the treatment for two months and have been completely cured. I recommend it to all suffering from this annoying disease and feel very grateful to you for doing so much for me. PAUL L. WALD, Marion, Ind., May 1, 1902.

We vouch for above
The facts in this case of Mr. Paul L. Wald, have been laid before me in all details with proofs that are unmistakable. Every particular in the history of this remarkable cure more than bears out the above statement of the case. From the proofs submitted, we feel that this announcement comes far from doing full justice to the remarkable merit of a medicine which accomplishes results so important to humanity.

Since we have handled the preparation in this city, a great number of people have used it for various skin affections. Its results have been invariably satisfactory. We are therefore willing to guarantee any purchaser full return of his $1.00, if satisfactory results are not experienced from a trial of a bottle in any case of skin affection.

We not only sell at retail, but also supply druggists at wholesale prices. D. D. D. costs but $1.00 a bottle, and is guaranteed to cure or money refunded.

HEALTHY PLANTS

Require the Most Chemical Attention as Well as Good Soil.

Did you ever see a rosebush which—despite the most beneficent environment of soil-of sunshine—and of atmosphere—seemed never to achieve a healthy growth? A ton of manure will not help a plant that has a canker eating out its heart. You must destroy the cause before you can remove the effect.

You cannot cure Dandruff and Baldness by rubbing on hair lotions, and rubbing in vaseline, etc. You must look to the cause of the trouble—it's a germ at the roots of your hair which causes it to fall out. Newb's Herpicide destroys the germ, and healthy hair is the sure result. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Wm. W. Council of Administration Meeting.

The Council of Administration of the G. A. R., department of Ohio, was in session here, on Monday, with Department Commander Col. B. M. Moulton, at state headquarters. After the general work of the department had been disposed of, the time was devoted to the pleasure of the visitors, who drove about the city and later all enjoyed dinner together at the Lima House.

The Council is composed of Mr. J. C. Williams, of Troy; Mr. Max Silberberg, Cincinnati; Mr. S. G. Harvey, Toledo; Mr. William Horn, Salem; and Dr. George Hall, of Lima.

The others who enjoyed the privilege of spending the afternoon and evening with these representative men were: Assistant Adjutant General E. F. Davis; Assistant Quartermaster General O. M. Hoffister, and D. D. Sheldy, of Tiffin; A. M. Dildine, of A. Maltbie, Owen Francis and H. H. Heman, aides on the colonel's staff.

A Charming Social Event.

The Richie home on west North street, was gay with floating banners of the nation's chosen hues, on Wednesday evening. Every where, outside and in were flags, large and small, which suggested to the guests, that a military eulogy was the form of entertainment that had been planned for the pleasure of Mrs. Galvin's guest, Miss Lillian Dunlap, of Kansas City. Mo. Six tables were filled with players for this delightful game at the conclusion of which the highest scores were held by Miss Mary Gray, who received a silver mounted tooth powder box. Miss Nell Lettice took Miss Madge Ewing a crystal vase; Mr. W. L. Russell, silver mounted hat brush. Mr. Frank Mitchell a Gibson head and Mr. Geo. L. Southard, a book. The guests from away were Miss Lydia Hanley, of Columbus, Miss McIntosh, of Cleveland and the honor guest.

The Dunlap-Miller Nuptials.

The beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Dunlap, near West Newton, was, on Wednesday, the scene of a very quiet, but nevertheless a very pretty wedding, when the marriage of their daughter, Rhoda, and Mr. Wm. H. Miller, was solemnized, in the presence of the immediate family. The bride is a beautiful and charming girl, and has hosts of friends in this city, having spent several years here as an efficient member of the Lima public school corps. The groom is a lawyer and a man of sterling worth, who resides in Cleveland, to which city he takes his bride and where they will make their future home. The following beautifully engraved announcements were received by their many friends.

SOUTH Lima Young Man to Marry

An Iowa Lady.

Lewis H. Beal Will, on Aug. 15th,

Lead to the Altar Miss Edna Gertrude Nicholson, at Rockwell, Ia.

Death of Don. C. Shuler—Mrs. W. E. Hess and Mrs. Schermerhorn Injured in Run-away—Notes.

Invitations have been received in this city, announcing the approaching marriage of Lewis H. Beal, Jr., a well known former Lima boy, and Miss Edna Gertrude Nicholson, of Rockwell City, Iowa. The happy nuptial event will occur at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Nicholson, at Rockwell City, on the evening of Monday, August 15th, at 8:30 o'clock.

The groom-elect is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis H. Beal, of 923 St. Johns avenue this city, and his promised bride is an estimable and accomplished young lady of the Iowa city. Mr. Beal has been as a teacher of languages in the Rockport two years.

Death of Don. C. Shuler. For the past year Don. C. Shuler, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Shuler, of 540 south Central avenue, has been ailing with stomach trouble, caused, the physicians say by a fermentation of puss and water in the lower part of the abdomen. A few days ago it was decided best to perform an operation on the young man, as the only possible remedy, and accordingly he was taken to the City hospital, where he passed away yesterday afternoon while being operated upon.

Deceased was 22 years, 9 months and 5 days old, was quartermaster sergeant of Co. K second regiment infantry O. N. G. until last fall, having served four years; was well known and had a host of friends. He was formerly employed by Henry Hauenstein, the bicycle merchant, but of late was an electrician at the Lima Electric Light plant.

Father, mother and two brothers, Lewis and Earl, survive.

Funeral services will be held at the south side Church of Christ at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon. Rev. Geo. Sims officiating and will be attended by Co. K in a body.

Two Lima Ladies Injured in a Run-away.

Last Monday a merry crowd of south Lima people started for Lake Ridge to enjoy an outing of several days. Among the party were Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hess, of west Kibby street, and Mr. and Mrs. George Schermerhorn, of south McDonald street, and several others.

The party went by rail to Russell's Point where they were met by a Mr. Sanders, a farmer, with a hay wagon, on which the party started to Lake Ridge. When within a hundred feet of their stopping place, at a curve in the road, the horses became frightened and turned the corner too quick, causing the occupants to slide off the hay-ladder. In the fall Mrs. Hess sustained a fracture of the left collar bone, and a bruised hip. Mrs. Schermerhorn's injuries are not definitely known, but she struck her head with considerable force and it is feared she is more seriously hurt than at first noted, and as she will not arrive in Lima until a late hour this afternoon, the extent of her injuries cannot be told.

Mrs. Hess was brought home, and is in a doubtful condition, as to speedy recovery, as the fracture has been set five times since the accident occurred. It is thought the fractured bones have worn smooth and that there is nothing to hold them in position, thus causing so many settings. She is resting as comfortable as could be expected today.

South Lima Man in Trouble. The following clipping from the Marion Mirror, concerns a former south Lima man and woman.

"John Reeder and Etta Musselman were arrested at Prospect this morning by Marshal Trickett on a complaint by A. Musselman of Lima, who claims to be the woman's husband. Reeder and the Musselman woman were formerly man and wife, it appears but were divorced several years ago. Mrs. Reeder later marrying Musselman at Lima. About three months ago the woman came to Prospect and has since been living with Reeder. Reeder and his former wife had entered into a written contract whereby the woman was to act as housekeeper and take charge of their child. The woman says that Reeder is her first and only love."

The couple were given a preliminary hearing before Mayor Toms this morning and their trials were set for Aug. 6th. They were released on bonds of $300."

Will Enjoy an Outing. This morning several of south Lima's charming young ladies went to Cedar Point to enjoy an outing of ten days. The party included the Misses Nettie Taylor, Macie Wright, Blanche Driver, Freta and Susan Miller, Ollie Peitler, Lela Williams and Hazel and Creta Shuler.

Had Trouble of Her Own. Late last night a woman created a little excitement on west Kibby street, by standing and screaming at the top of her voice, in fact her actions were more of a hysterical nature than anything else. Nobody seemed to know her, and when asked the cause of her weep, she screamingly replied: "I don't know, I have troubles of my own."

Mysterious actions seemed to be a bad last night on the south side. At a very late hour people near Vine street, along St. Johns avenue, were disturbed by a man and wife, who had both been out for a "time," and who were quarrelling and fighting en route to their "home."

"Lakeview, Aug. 5.—Please arrange to have room in market tomorrow for fish shipped to your care, 8,663 lbs of fine fish, this p. m. Will write you tomorrow."

Send 'em on, boys. If the market can't use them, they can be used to stock the Reiff pond on east Vine street. Mr. Reiff would also like a few bottles of cologne, as he says the pond smells like malarial fever to him. The board of health will please take notice.

LONG

And Useful Life Is Ended.

Hand of Death

Claims the Venerable Patrick Keefe.

Passed Away at Home on North Jackson Street This Morning.

Deceased Was Born in Ireland and Came to This Country Over Half a Century Ago—Funeral Monday.

After a long life of usefulness, Patrick Keefe, the venerable pioneer resident of 709 north Jackson street, has found rest in the sleep of death. The dissolution occurred this morning a few minutes past midnight, after an illness of a few weeks duration from well known through the city and was well known throughout the city and was highly respected by all. He was one of those whole-souled, kind hearted personages, whom it was a pleasure to meet. Mr. Keefe was possessed of that rare trait of character, of charity toward his fellowman. No matter what might be the faults or shortcomings of others, he always spoke kindly of them. His good life is a lasting benediction to those who are left to mourn.

The deceased was born in the County Limerick, Ireland, on St. Patrick's day, March 17, 1829, and lived to celebrate his 84th birthday anniversary last March. He came to America 57 years ago, and settled at Cambridge, New York, where he followed farming for several years. Mr. Keefe removed with his family to Sidney in 1867 where he served the C. C. & I. railroad in a position of trust. Later on he entered the employ of the C. H. & D. Co., and for a long period of years he had charge of the wood and work train between Toledo and Dayton. The Keefe family located in Lima a quarter of a century ago and have since resided here. The deceased's wife passed to rest four years ago last January. To mourn the death of this grand old man, are one son, Passenger Engineer Michael Keefe, of the C. H. & D. of Cincinnati, and three daughters: Mrs. Kate Moriarty, Mrs. Louis Kemper and Mrs. Edwin R. King, of Lima and Mrs. John Stoker, of Portland, Oregon.

The deceased was an exemplary member of St. Rose church, and the funeral services will be held at that church, Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock, followed by interment in the family lot in Gethsemani cemetery.

SECRET

Cleverly Concealed for Eight Months.

Popular Young Couple Wedded Last November.

Did Not Reveal Their Marriage to Relatives and Friends Until Yesterday, When They Departed for St. Louis.

A marriage that occurred in Findlay last November and in which two popular young people of this city were the contracting parties, was the happy secret that was cleverly concealed from friends and relatives, until yesterday afternoon, by Mr. Roy H. Ferguson and his estimable bride who was formerly Miss Justice Lawlor, youngest daughter of Mr. John Lawlor, of 229 east Pearl street.

During last November, Miss Lawlor visited friends in Findlay and was met there by Mr. Ferguson and while en route back to this city they stopped in Findlay, long enough to have the nuptial knot tied, and arrived here on an evening train of the same day. Their courtship continued and no one suspected that the happy nuptial event had already occurred until they made the surprising announcement yesterday afternoon. Mr. Ferguson had already completed arrangements for their departure for St. Louis, where he had secured an excellent position in a railroad office, and a few hours after they had revealed their long kept secret, they were speeding to their future home in the World's Fair city.

Mr. Ferguson is a son of William J. Ferguson, proprietor of the Ferguson commission house at 314 and 316 east High street. He is an exemplary young man and both he and his bride have a legion of friends whose best wishes accompany them to their new home.

SPENT QUIET DAY.

Esopus, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Judge Parker spent a quiet but busy morning after the events of yesterday when he closed a period of nearly thirty years service in the judiciary of the state of New York. He arose about six o'clock fully refreshed from the weariness which he confessed last night.

After breakfast Judge Parker went into his library, and concentrated his attention upon the very large correspondence which has accumulated during the last few days since he devoted his spare time to his speech of acceptance. Later he went for a horseback ride with Mrs. Parker. No visitors are expected today.

WENT OUT THROUGH SEWER.

Jeffersonville, Ind., Aug. 6.—The authorities of the Indiana Reformatory have discovered that Parker and Gatewood escaped prisoners, whose absence was noted yesterday crawled three hundred yards through an eighteen inch sewer which leads to the Ohio river, and then out their way out. Their shirts were found in a corn field.

THE IDLER.

Hon. J. H. Goeke, of Wapakoneta, was in the city for a short time last night, enroute to his home from a trip through the southwest. When asked what he found to be the drift of political sentiment, he said:

"Everywhere I find democrats in line and confident of success. Among republicans there is a strong, but illy concealed undercurrent against Roosevelt. They, as well as the business interests are afraid we will awaken some morning to find the country in some unnecessary entanglement, brought on by him. In his own ranks, the leaders are weary of his dictatorial methods, and he will be surprised at the number of discontents when the returns reach him after the election."

The tour of Joseph Jr. and William W. Jefferson, who have been so successful the past two seasons in Sheridan's old English comedy, "The Rivals" will extend from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast and this will be the first visit that these young and successful stars have made west of the Missouri River.

Col. J. I. Ream is on the road for Tony Zenker, the Kenton cigar manufacturer.

Kenton advertises that the committee in charge has secured the Lima city band for her Labor Day demonstration.

The Kenton Driving Club has reorganized for the coming year, and will again seek membership in the C. H. & D. circuit.

The members of the Eagle band and orchestra, who assisted the Ada Choral Society in the rendition of "Elijah" and "The Messiah," at Lakeside this week, have returned home.

A family named Ireland, living near Kenton, boasts of six sons whose combined weight is 1329 pounds, and an average height of 6 feet 4 inches.

Humane societies over the state will probably watch with interest the efforts of the Columbus Humane Society to secure its pro rata of the dog tax collected in the county. The society has never been awarded a penny under the law which provides that at the June session of the county commissioners the sheep losses (by dogs) must be paid in full from the fund raised by the state tax on dogs, if the fund is sufficient.

If it is not sufficient, the claims are pro rated among the losers of sheep. The law provides that if after the payment of the sheep claims there remains more than $2,500 the whole or any part of the excess may be paid to a duly incorporated Humane Society in active operation in the county.

HANGED TO CHERRY TREE.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 6.—It was learned that Andrew Dudley, the negro boy who assaulted Little Bloomer McClain, in Nelson county and who last night was taken by a mob from officer Critzer, at Afton, was hurried to the scene of his crime and hanged to a cherry tree.

Manzan is certainly a specific for Piles. This new discovery is put up in a collapsible tube, with nozzle, so it may be applied where most needed. Stops the pain, restores the cure. For sale by H. F. Vothman.
